

The Winchester-Thurston School

Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

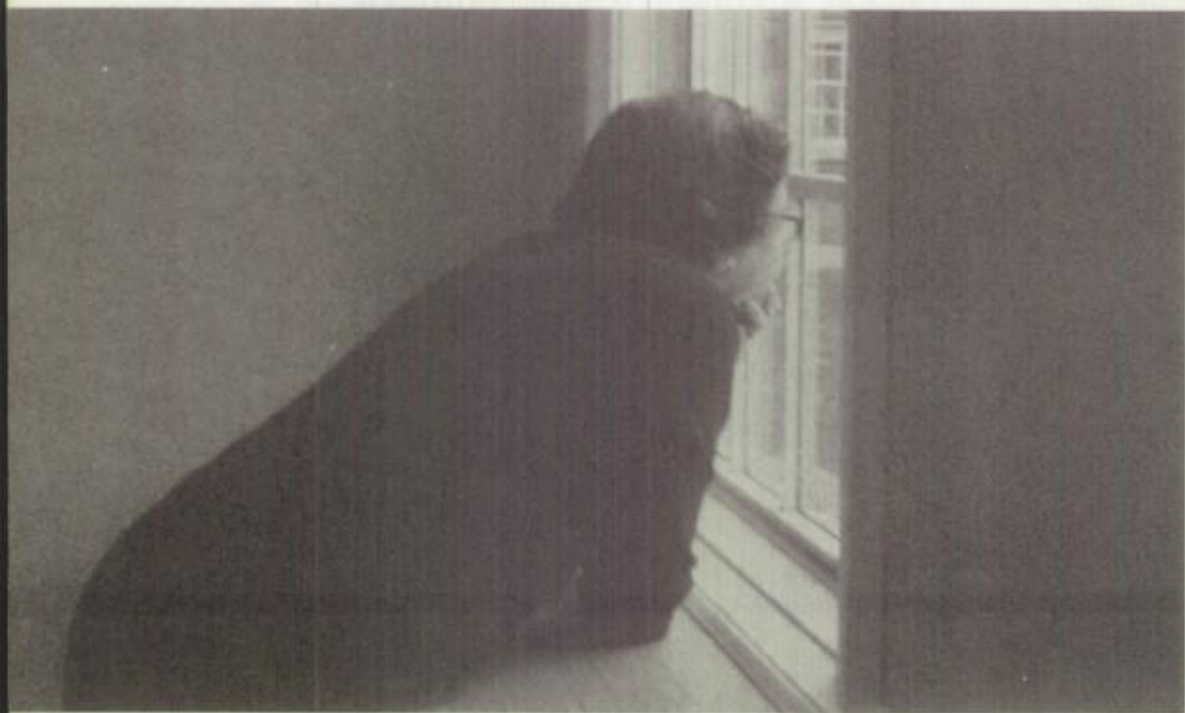

Winchester-Thurston is a special sort of place. It is a school where you will find an understanding and warmth between the students and their teachers, an intimacy among the students themselves, and a common loyalty to those principles and ideals which represent WT. Here you will find probing discussions in the classrooms, exuberant and excited cheering at the games and pep rallies, and a sociable buzzing in the lunchroom. Although we all dress alike in our black watch plaid skirts, you will find that we are individually different.

As you walk through our building you will find a certain spirit which is unique to Winchester. This spirit remains intangible and yet you can feel it throughout the school year. It is prevalent in the confusion of the first day of school, in the Halloween skits, in the candlelit Christmas ceremony, in the performances of our plays and our concerts, and, lastly, in our singing procession at graduation. You can find this feature in our assortment of programs in chapel, in our enthusiasm for our foreign exchange student, and in our numerous money-raising projects.

We, the staff of The 1966 Thistledown, have tried to capture this essence which prevails at WT and makes it more than just a school.

Ann Haber

Dedication

An assured cheerful smile when we walk in the morning . . . undaunted optimism that makes us ashamed to give up . . . a vital interest in each student as an individual . . . ready sympathy without permissiveness . . . willingness to help us, but even more, to help us help ourselves . . .

These are the qualities which make us proud to dedicate The 1966 Thistledown to Mrs. Elizabeth A. Todd.

In Honor of

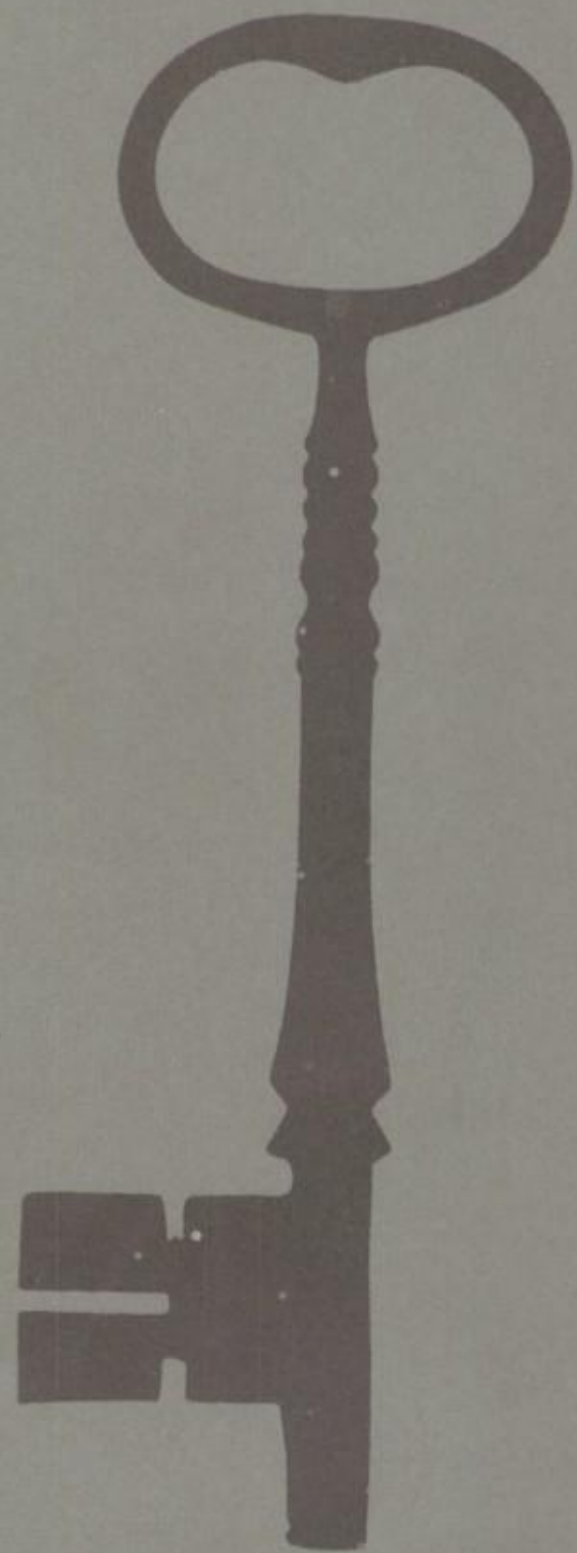

The French plays and the many fables in class which introduced us to the uniquely French brand of humor . . . intuitive understanding of her students and their problems . . . the ability to laugh at a good joke without compromising the dignity of her position . . . her dedication to the enjoyment of education as well as to education itself . . .

It is for these characteristics that we, the students of Winchester-Thurston, honor Madame Genevieve Yagodkin.
